

Malvern Hills Science Park - Malvern

Year 2007

The Polaris active beam units have been integrated into a high-specification suspended ceiling system to deliver a dramatic aesthetic to this stunning building. The Project Engineers, CPW of Birmingham, selected chilled beams to contribute to the low-energy brief for this technology centre.